They were unable to get proper meals, and had to satisfy their hunger on rice gruel.

On their arrival at Hwal-Lal local officials lent their services, and from that on they escaped all the humiliations that they had thus far experienced. Uncle Sam Says She May Come to the United States.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 1.—The decision of the Secretary of the Treasury that the wife of a Chinese native-born citizen of the United States is entitled to admission into the United States, has a case in point in this city, but the principal will not take advantage of it. He is Lim Ah Heaum of Grant street. Lim was born in this country and when he grew to manthood visited the Flowery Kingdom. There he met and married his present wife. She, however, refused to accompany him to this country and he returned alone. In the meantime he has accumulated quite a competence, and is now preparing to go to China, where he will build a house and establish a home for her.

In speaking of the matter, the Reverent Doctor E. R. Doneboo, the recognized friend of the Chinamen in Western Pennsylvania, said that, with the exception of a few isolated cases, the ruling would make little difference. The large majority of the China-men who come to this country, or at least those who have lived here, have wives and families in China. They come here usually those who have lived here, have wives and families in China. They come here usually to engage in business. As soon as they acquire sufficient money they return to their native country to spend the remainder of their lives. They all want to die in China among their sincestors and relatives. Another reason why so few wives of Chinamen join their husbands in this country is the fact that the wives themselves refuse to come. se to come. An interesting case which has come under he notice of Doctor Donehoo lately is that if a Chinaman living in this country whose offe died in her native land. Since that wife died in her native land. Since that time he has married an American girl, and now desires to import a child born to the first marriage. This question has also been passed upon, and the ruling made that the children in such instances may be admitted to the United States, but other relatives, such as nieces or nephews, are barred.

TORTURED INNOCENT WOMEN WITH FIENDISH INGENUITY

Awful Fate of Misses Morrill and Gould, American Missionaries, at Pao-Ting-Fu.

BY EDWIN WILDMAN.

SPECIAL BY CABLE.

Pag-Ting-Fu, Oct. 26, via Taku, Nov. 1.—
(Conyright, 1899, by W. R. Hearst.)—The awful fate of Miss Mary S. Morrill, the only one of the American missionaries about whose end there was any doubt, was revealed to-day at the trial before the Albed Court, over which the French General, Bailleud, is presiding.

The fate of Miss Annie Gould has already been told. That of Wiss Marrill was ready been told. That of Miss Morrill was similar, but her death was not so merciful. When the other missionaries—all menwere burned to death in their houses these two brave young women were laid aside, reserved for a more exquisite torture. These Chinese fiends have devised agonles of which Westerners have only a remote idea. They knew that these two pure women could be hurt more by shame

Saw Their Defenders Burned. After making them watch the burning of their mission houses with their faithful male defenders in them, after compelling them to stand by while the streets ran with the blood of their native converts, they stripped them of their clothing and tied them by the hair to long bamboo poles, Coolies here the other ends of these poles and forced them to march, naked, through crowded streets of the great city

The savage mos spat upon them and threw vile refuse as they passed. The blood-thirsty Chinese soldiers devoured them with hungry eyes. Through the miles of crowded streets they walked, stained and deeding, encouraging each other from time to time with a prayer or a verse from the story of the passion of him, for love of whom they were suffering in whose holy footsteps they were treading the rough road Miss Gould, enfeebled by long weeks of watching and anxiety, succumbed, and death from terror robbel her torturers of the thendish pleasure they had designed for themselves in her agony.

But Miss Morrill stumbled bravely on, alone, to her martyrdom.

Welcome Death Came at Last. A highly-edcusted Christian Chinaman who escaped the massacre and who wilnessed the scene, told the court to-day that her eyes were raised to heaven with a look in them as if she saw it already open ready to receive her. She was like Hypatia among the savage Christians of Alexandria, alone, naked, with death her only hope. Outside the city walls her tortures stopped. The indignities that they heaped upon her were such as the devils of hell devise for the torture of damned soulsunprintable, untellable,

When the flends had sated their malignant ingenuity, a soldier chopped off the young martyr's breasts with his sword. Her wrists were tied with a rope behind her back and she was forced to her knees One blow of a sword severed her head from her shoulders, and she was at rest,

Her body was barned. This was a day of vengeance. Five of the great Chinese officials were tried by the affied court, found guffty and sentenced to death for this crime and that against the other missionaries. They were Tien Yang, the provincial Judge of Pao-Ting-Fu; General Yul and Colonel Whing Shan Hing of the Chinese Army, who be-trayed to the Boxers the missionaries they

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Collectors of antiques in this city are much interested in the appearance here of a quaint linen tablectoth of great age. It was brought to this country in 1825 from Beigium by Mr. Visser, great grandson of Baron van Zandyke, of Holland, and was handed down from Mr. Visser's grandmother to its present owner. It has a beautiful woven design from end to end, representing Louis XIV and his court with the words, "Ludovicus XLLLL et Maria Teresia Austriaca," and the coat-of-arms over each representation. The cloth is of the finest texture and is in a state of perfect preservation, having the date 1871 worked into one corner. The cloth is yellow from age, like old lace, and has never been laundered. If washed and ironed the figures would stand out in bold relief. The mode of writing Ludovicus XLLLL (instead of XIV) in Roman letters is conclusive proof of the age, as no Roman letter in the Roman notation has been used four times in succession for over two centuries. local grocer, and 'nubby' would always raise more or less of a row until the coffee he was used to came atong.

"One time I concluded to serve some Postum Food Coffee, without his knowing it. Hubby remarked that he was glad to know the regular coffee man had got along and he was very much pecased. He had not the sightest idea it was Fostum, and I let this run along for about two months, serving min Fostum every day. A lady guest at our table remarked that she would like to know how I made coffee, as hers always had a bitter taste. I thought it was a good time to tell the truth, and remarked that I always took four heaping teaspoonsful of Postum Food Coffee— 'What?' yelled hubby, 'what's that!' Yes, I take four heaping teaspoons of Postum to the pint of water.' (Hubby was still staring.) 'Let it stand on the stove until it really boils and then allow the actual boiling to continue thereafter for fitteen minutes.' You can imagine how he stared. Finally he remarked: 'Well, if the coffee I have been drinking for two months is Postum Food Coffee that is the only kind we will have in the hoise hereafter."

"I was brought to try Postum, for I had so much trouble with my heart for four or rive years, with fainting spells and so many times a day was compelled to sit down to keep from falling, could not go up and down cellar on account of dizziness, and a sick feeling at my stomach, could not eat any thing greasy.

"After a thorough examination by the doctor I was told that I had catarrh of the stomach in the worst form and he forbid the use of either tea or coffee, so I started in on Postum, leaving off the old coffee entirely, as well as tea. I immediately began to get better and now my trouble is entirely gone and I am well in every respect and able to eat anything I want, without distress. I proved to my own satisfaction that coffee was the cause of my trouble." Mrs. F. Shurte, Sistersville, W. Va.
